

Critical Thinking

Course Description

Our workload and time constraints often cause us to have rushed, impulsive, or emotionally-based thinking, even when we'd like to think more critically. In this course, we'll teach you tools that incorporate critical thinking into your decision making, problem solving, and information processing so you can unbiased your thinking and take more objective actions.

