

Building Motivation for Your Team

Course Description

Teams with motivated employees are highly adaptable, exude positivity, and demonstrate higher levels of performance and productivity. This workshop takes team leaders through the process of reflecting on how their attitudes and beliefs shape employee motivation. It then guides leaders through a four-part plan with clear strategic and practical actions they can take to create a work environment optimized for sustainable motivation. Motivation isn't something you can do to or for others. But you can create optimal conditions for motivation which is what this class is all about.

Course Outline

- Benefits of Motivated Employees
- Self-reflection:
 - Attitude
 - Beliefs
- Optimize Motivation

Outcomes

- Why we need motivated employees
- Four components to create an optimal workplace environment for sustainable motivation
- The impact of showing motivation for your team
- Why transferring optimism to your team matters